Those resolutions they had will continue to be, agreed to and stood by, of course. Mr. Beer did not think it wise, perhaps for the oar to have gone i do print and signed the statement with resectance, as did Mr. Dowlin, and mainly because it has been previously signed by all the rest of the bar. Mr. Pholos and Mr. Ashe signed it, they say, as hoping to reveal the Than-cript's source of information about Mon-

New Hampshire's alarm over flat rapid disappearance of her forests, especially those of spence, has resulted in the aspointment of a Forestra Commission. The present report of this Commission, the present report of this Commission is very important matter, as incidentially very important matter, as incidentially enumeroement of an Anv. ricen policy of systematic forest preservation. The Commission has carried on an electromal campaign among the lumbermon with the result that a namber of the great lumber operators at work in the statt have begun to adopt such mathed so fravesting the forest crop as will tend to insure the perpetuation of the valuable species which are now chiefly in demand. These methods restrict lumber operators to the removal of trees not less than ten or twelve inches in diameter at the stump. The Commission is now welking to make those restrictions a state. I say. This would as sure the life of the sprace forests, and protect the valuable pullo products, basides favorably affecting the flaw of rivers innortant to other states—the Merrimac and the Connecticut,—Massachusetis Ploughman. Mr. Beer said that he was not prepared to say he should ask v candidate for jude to subscribe to the resolutions or pledge himself. He thought not. He was not prepared to say what construction be put on the word "practice" in the first resolutions. It was open to translation. He had not said any wird in approval of the snap bar meeting. He had not been appointed eccretary of that meeting, but was "asked" to be "secretary" after it was over and he took no minutes at the meeting, and the report was written else-where. The published statement of the Cariton T. Phelps said he should not demand any pledges or promises of a candidate for plage. The spirit of the resolutions was proper, and he stood committed to them, but a honest man could be trusted. He said the standard for the state in hone of Gen. It is a continual surprise that more women dependent upon themselves for a livelihood do not throw down the needle, hid adien to typewriting and elerking and go into the country to upage in the profitable occupation of chicken raising. One practical and level headed woman who has done so and who has made a fortune out of it is Mrs. Nellie Hawks of Nobraska. Writing of the advantages of poultry culture as an occupation for women, Mrs. Hawks says:

"It is not necessary that one have at the start, to make a success at the poultry business, all the modern conveniences of the day, though they are but convenient and desirable. Little by little one accumulates, and these will come to the presistent laborer who presides in the poultry the yards becomes a scurce of great pride and satisfaction. Comfortable houses—those that are warm, dry and of reasonable proportions—will answer every purpose. They need not be expensive or at all pretentions to outside appearance. Comparatively few of the women who engage in poality rearting ever become fanciers. More of them are employed in producing eggs and chicks for market purposes. This becomes in time and through persoverance a very renumerative line of the work, and especially so to those living within available distance of elty markets. Let a woman once rain for herself the reputation for furnishing strictly first class articles of the kind in which she dwils, and her success is assured. With a good market widdin reach, her greatest trouble will be to meet the demand for fresh eggs and for fries and brotlers.

"Solling eggs for hapching is another remunerative branch of poultry culture. Thirteen or 15 eggs are considered his number of eggs that shall constitute a sitting, and such eggs, from one's choicest, most valuable specimens of the breeding yards, sell at prices ranging from $2 to $3 and $5 per sitting. These eggs are carefully packed in baskets and every precaution taken in the packing to insure their safe arrival at the place of their numerical destination. A piece of new nuclair is nearly in the packing to insure their safe stination. A piece of new nuclair is nearly

When Alone at a Hotel.

When Alone at a Hotel.

There never is a time when a woman more seriously needs the defense, comfoct and guidance of a knowledge of eliquette than when parting up alone at a hotel. Here, without a charcron, the crowds of busy travelers or idlers of her own sex who haunt the drawing room with a kren relish for gossip are either suspicious and critical or celldy indifferent. Clerks and proprietors look upon the solitory founds guest with very little friendly interest, so she is left the one stronghold of cureful good breeding behind which to intrench hered!

The Food of Children

The Food of Children.

The important question of food for children is discussed by Anna C. Pollok in the Washington Home Magazine. In the first place, she says, do not feed the children baker's bread if you can possibly manage to give them a good hemerande land. The flour used in the exiduary baker's loaf does not compare favorably with that used in making bread at home as to the amount of curriment contained in it, and the extraordinary baker's loaf has had the fermenting process so extended that not a liable of the prepartannof nutriment which it originally possessed has been destroyed before it is baked. And, again, the baking of the baker's loaf is very frequently so very indifferently performed as to make of it a dangerous article of food when fresh, and no one craws is right, except for tank. And, still again, all bakers are not so superious to the temperation presented by successfully manipulated adulterants as to place their bread beyond suspicion.

Then do not attempt to feed and nourish children, nor any one clea, for that matter, on the "beautiful white leaf." of that matter, on the "beautiful white leaf." of that matter, on the "beautiful white leaf." of that matter, on the "beautiful white leaf." of

Then do not attempt to feed and nour-ish children, nor any one else, for that matter, on the "beautiful white leaf," of which, in the ignorance of our hearts, we have been pratte to hones. As a "staff of life," and that is what our bread, and, again, especially our children's bread, is supposed to he, she "beautiful white loaf." Is a fraud. As a sarch food it is an eni-ment success and andoubtedly very deli-cious and may be used occasionally to vary the monotony of the usual bill of face. But it gives to us little except heat and lat, while the brown breads give food to all parts of the body and constitute a true, complete food. I sincerely wish that I could persuade all house mothers to take this matter to heart. Our children are fed could persuade all house mothers to take this matter to heart. Our children are fed so largely on broad and consume, comparatively speaking, so small a proportion of meat that it is of first importance that we should give to them in their broad all the necessary materials for the proper building up of their bodies, and that we should doliberately give to them only a part of their proper food and deliberately throw away the rest because of a foolish prejudice in favor of a white loaf is most remarkable and most consumble. Containity there is some choice between the two kinds of bread as to taste, but the difference is so slight and a preference for one or the other so largely a matter of habit that this side of the question is of builtitle momens. And particularly it need not tle moment. And particularly it need not be considered, where the children are concerned, except as an argument in its favor for I have never known a child who would not select the entire wheat or grahum bread in preference to the white.

Most women of spirit, breadth or force says Harper's Hazer, contain a large ele-ment of hohendament, which they are only too glad to display when they are confident of meeting with sympathy.

All women should desire to give each other the example of a sweet, good life, more elequent and powerful lihan any words.—Lanisa le. Alcott.

Now, the first dury, especially of a young and urnearied wammunabliged to stop at a heath, is to make inquiries before hand as to the less thostedries in the cry to which sho is going. She should find a hote to that repartonized by quiet, conservative people, and on her arriving cuter by the ladier doer. Here, in a waiting room set agrant for her ext, a seventh will take her lags in hand and lend the way to the clerk's desk.

If a room or rooms are engaged, she ought never fail to herm their exact price by the day and haquere whether the establishment is conducted on the European or American plan. After this shewall be able to exactly calculate by mental arithmetic what her bill will probably be and will quickly conclude whether or no that is a hotel quice within her means.

With catters and triends she should converse, not in whispers not yet in a conspicuous from of voice, but carry on her conversations at table and in the drawing room in a quiet, low tone, carefully refraining from either starling at the people who sit near or turning to observe every new arrival. At breakfast, dinner and lunchean the same toffet may be worn and a lask or bounet always relatined if one prefers its. S. ager Lawson intends giving two or three youngsters a trial in the preliminary season to show what they can do, and if they show up strong enough will probably sign them, providing that any of the regu-lar men fail to play up to their past form

The Revival at Pittsfield.

The meeting Thursday morning at the Baptist church at Pittsfield in the series of revival services was well attended, and much interest was manifested. Dr Chap man gave a Rible talk and Mr Bilhorn sang The First church was crowded yes-terday afternoon, and many were in at-tendance from out of town. In fact fully half of the afternoon meetings are at-tended by people from other sections of the county. Last evening the Methodist church was again packed, and many had to stand Several conversions are reported, and the management are highly pleased with the results so far. There will be no service tomorrow. The usual services will be held this morning at the Baptist church, this afternoon at the First church and this evening at the Methodist

A Work of Art.

There is on exhibition in Ward's photograph gallery for a few days only a very beautiful picture of the little daughter of Mr and Mrs James H femple it is a French pastel 20 by 34 inches and was done by a Boston artist from a photograph made by Mr Ward. The proture is very near perfection in pose, feature, color and shading, and is certainly one of the fluest works of art lately seen in this city. It is handsomely framed and is most highly prised by the parents of the sweet child prised by the parents of the sweet child whose pretty figure and features have been so faithfully produced by the artist

SCHOOL HOUSE BIDS.

Opened Thursday by the School Board and Are Being Considered.

The school board met in Superintendent Hall's office flursday alternoon and opened the bids for the contracts for building the Beaver and Church street schools. Nine bids were received from the following Porter & Hannam, Alexnder Pecer and C F Barden of thus city, Easton, Rising & Worden of Hoesick Falls, N Y, A W Burntt & Co of Bridgeport Conn, A A Jones & Co of Holyoke, Dodge & Devaney of Puttsfield H C Wood of Westfield, and H P Canning & Co of Ware.

There was but comparatively little variation in the hids, which shows that the nguring was very carefully done. The council must approve the contract before it is awarded. The school board will have the matter under consideration for a tow tays and then a special intering of the council will probably be called to consider t Assoon as a decision is reached the ontracts will be awarded

SHOE SHOP BROKEN INTO.

Smashed a Window and Took Eight Pairs of Bicycle Shoes.

The Canedy Clark shoe factory on Ashland street was broken into Wednesday night and eight pairs of bicycle shoes were taken. The burglars ripped a wire screen from a rear window in the first story and entered by breaking four lights and the sish. The shoes were taken from the second floor. The police have anvestigated the case, but have occurrent able to obtain a clew

The same factory was broken into about a year ago and the shoes taken were afterwards four dividen near Miner street The work in both cases was doubtled done by local toughs

A SERIOUS MISTAKE.

Shamrock Mistaken for Watercresses and Devoured by a Beer Brinker.

According to a story that is going the rounds a laughable and yet very annoying mistake was made in one of the saloons of this city on St. Patrick's day. It is said that the proprietor had received from Ircland some shamrock which he placed on the bar so that any patron desiring 1 could have a sprig for his lapel. The courtes, was greatly appreciated by those who understood it, but unfortunately, ac-cording to the story, one man stepped in for some beer and, mistaking the shom rock for watercresses, cleaned the dish hetere his error was discovered. It was an expensive free lunch, but the mostake was one which could not be remedied and there was nothing to do but to grin and bear it. It is probable, however, that the man who made it will never again com tnit so grevious a blunder
